EVENTS OF THE DAY THROUGHOUT GEORGIA.

Indian Spring and Its Coming Season.—The New railroad—American Artesian Well and the Lake Conservation—Revivals and Conference in Camilla—People in Athens, Ga.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution.

AMERICAS, April 25.—Americus is having an artesian well. Our city council at its meeting yesterday afternoon appointed a committee consisting of the mayor and three members of the city council, which was authorized and instructed to make the necessary arrangements for the accomplishment of this desirable purpose. While we do not need a well of this character as badly as our sister cities below us, as we are just above the rotten limestone region, and most of the wells in the city afford pretty good water, still the proposed artesian well will be of great benefit to the business portion of the city, where the water now used is of inferior quality and where an increased supply of the fluid can be utilized in various ways.

Our people enjoyed very much the recent session of the Baptist state convention which was held here. The meetings of the convention and religious services held during its continuance were largely attended. On Sunday the doctors of divinity were to the fore in force and our citizens had the opportunity of enjoying several fine discourses from some of the ablest and most prominent of this large and influential denomination. Decidedly the most interesting and enjoyable speech was delivered upon the floor of the convention, during its entire sitting, was the one with which Dr. H. H. Tucker closed the debate which arose over the acceptance or non-acceptance of the invitation from the Home mission society of New York, to appoint a representative of that body at the approaching semi-centennial celebration in May, 1882. The question had been ably debated upon both sides, and when the venerable doctor arose every ear was strained to catch the words which should fall from his lips. Never did a speech more fully repay its attentive listeners. It was in one of the doctor's happiest hours. It was brimful of strong, simple, manly, forcible, sentimental, delicate satire and decided logic, and carried conviction to those who heard it. When he sat down the resolution calling for the appointment of five correspondents to meet with the Home mission society in New York was passed with scarcely a dissenting voice.

Some of the foremost educators of the state were present at the session. To begin with, there was the venerable chancellor of the State university, Dr. Mel, who was the moderator of the convention. Then from Mercer there came its honored president, Dr. A. J. Battle, and two of its leading professors, Dr. S. P. Farnum, professor of mathematics, and Professor J. E. Wilcox, professor of natural sciences. From Shorter College, Rome, came its honored head Rev. R. D. Mallard, and the Southern female college at LaGrange was represented by President Cox, so well and favorably known in Georgia. A pleasant incident, appertaining to the sitting convention, occurred Saturday afternoon, when a number of the alumni of the State university who resided in Atlanta came in a body to pay their respects to their beloved alma mater's preceptor Dr. Mel. The doctor received his former pupils cordially and gladly, and a pleasant hour was spent in reviving the reminiscences of the happy past.

AT INDIAN SPRINGS.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. INDIAN SPRINGS, Ga., April 23.—In former years, before the iron horse tread the ways and thoroughfares of our state—before the many mineral waters and more accessible summer resorts were known, then the Indian Spring had more visitors than the three large hotels could accommodate. The sixteen miles of staging from Forsyth was considered a jaunt of fun and enjoyment and not a journey of weary and fatigue; but in this day of speed and swiftness, the four prancing horses hitched to the "old red coach" would be but a snail compared to the great iron monster traveling at a rate of forty miles an hour. So, for several years past, the old Indian was left out, but not forgotten. Now the sound of the "whistle" is heard again in the hills and Indian Spring is numbered among the railroad towns. Tuesday, the 17th, will be memorable in the annals of Butts county as the first day that the steam cars ever traversed her soil. Decay and dilapidation that had been so long the prominent feature of the town of Indian Spring, is being rubbed away. The sound of the "whistle" is heard again in the hills and the enlivening strains of sweet music will be wafted in the breeze. The hotels are donning a new dress and preparing for the great crowd that we hear are coming. The McIntosh house has been rented by Messrs. George and Whit Collier. They intend to run the house in the hotel style. Sunday will be a special feature of this day. The Farmer house has undergone complete and thorough renovation. The Elder house is ready for the reception of guests. The "reserve" on which the spring is situated is leased to Dr. Bryan. He is assisted by Dr. W. H. Whitehead. Visitors will always find an extended hand and warm welcome from the young doctor. These gentlemen are getting the best of the girls, and the shape at the spring, Bath, hot, cold, Russian or Turkish, will be furnished at all times.

The week just passed had some social dots worth recounting. Mr. N. C. Collier from Savannah, with his bride, nee Miss Collins, spent the week with relatives and friends. Miss Jones, from Tennessee, is visiting the Misses Bryan. Walks and drives to the park, along the piles of sand and track-laying, counting and watching the new arrivals are among the ways of killing time. Mr. B. W. Collins received a telegram stating that Governor Joseph E. Brown will come over the Mountain and Brunswick on April 26th. The Governor, which will be a novel and wonderful sight in this country, he will be the first visitor over the new road. Contracts have already been made to open a large livery business, carriages and buggies for pleasure drive, and for conveying passengers to and from the railroad.

FALSE ALARM.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. CARTERSVILLE, April 26.—Dr. Raines and Mr. William Lowe, of Atlanta, came up this morning for the purpose of investigating a report about having this morning an effort to set free the convicts had been killed by a train on the Cherokee railroad near Rockmart. No one was killed, and the only foundation for the report is that one of the convicts jumped off the train just before it stopped and fell, bruising his forehead a little. The doctor and Mr. Lowe will return to Atlanta to night. Memorial services and decorations of the dead graves at Cassville were observed to day. Quite a large crowd was present. Mr. A. H. Cox, of LaGrange, who had been selected to deliver the memorial address, was not present. The address was delivered by Rev. G. S. Tumlin, of Cartersville. It was impromptu, but terse and full of pathos and eloquence.

Never let the words be said,

Forgotten are the southern dead.

GAINESVILLE GOSPI.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. GAINESVILLE, April 26.—To-day the Odd Fellows' excursion down the G. J. and S. railroad to Hopewell was liberally patronized. The social services which have continued for three weeks, is now still going on this week in the Baptist church. Large numbers of seekers are up each night for special prayer. Dr. Buckman is laboring with unabated zeal and the attendance increases daily. The Gainesville, Jefferson and Southern railroad track is laid, and the work will be in three hundred yards of the public square, near to where the depot will be located. Our people are rejoiced to see the locomotive right up in town. The Dahlonega railroad has given orders for castings for the Chattooga bridge which are now being filled in the Piedmont foundry in this city. Gainesville was never on a greater boom.

The weather is very warm. The weather banks, Franklin and Hall have never looked more promising since 1849. If no disaster befalls the crop, the yield must be immense, as the acreage is much greater than usual. Plenty of peaches though not a full crop. Mrs. A. J. Comer died Monday and was buried yesterday. General Longstreet is yet sick. People being vaccinated pretty generally.

CAMILLA CHRISTIANS.

CAMILLA, April 26.—The Thomaston district is in a fever of excitement at this place yesterday. It was certainly one of the most satisfactory of any ever held in this section of country. About sixty delegates were present. The religious interest was wonderful. The religious services will continue through the week. After the sermon on Sunday, by Rev. T. T. Christian, preachers from all over the country presented themselves for prayer. $150 collected by Rev. L. B. Payne for the slaves here. Rev. L. B. Bocchelle, T. C. Mitchell, John P. Dickinson and J. A. Bush were elected delegates to the annual conference, which meets at Atlanta in December. A wonderful work of grace is going on in the Methodist church at Camilla. The district conference have prepared the way. Last night the church could not hold the people. Many conversions and seven admissions to the church.

ATHENS' PEOPLE.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. ATHENS, Ga., April 26.—Mr. A. L. Hull has just bought a valuable estate of Colonel B. C. Yaney, on Millidge avenue, and is moving his family to his new home in about two weeks, much to the regret of his present neighbors. It is rumored that a law suit will soon be commenced by the heirs over the estate of one of the oldest and wealthiest citizens of Athens, now deceased. Two of the most educated and most eloquent colored ministers in the south, Rev. Dr. Lyons and Rev. Emanuel K. Love, are holding a series of meetings here. Both are men of classical education and good Christian character. They are cousins, and both were born slaves, on the plantation of General E. King, in Perry county, Alabama.

FIRE IN DALTON.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. DALTON, April 26.—An alarm of fire Monday night about 9 o'clock threw the city into considerable excitement. Great consternation prevailed for some time, the cause of which was not known. At length it was found to be given from East. But the Dalton ax handle factory had caught on fire from the friction of the machinery, setting the saw dust on fire. Fortunately the fire was discovered in time to be arrested. Loss, $000. Very little damage to machinery or building. The Dalton Chit Chat club met last evening in the parlors of the National, where President D. Bokofzler's decoration of confederate soldiers' graves takes place this evening at the cemetery near this place.

DAHLONEGA DETAILS.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. DAHLONEGA, April 26.—In the suit on the title of the water ditch and Etowah and Battle vs. the Dahlonega, the jury rendered a verdict on Saturday evening in favor of the plaintiffs, with damages. This suit lasted four days. The property lays west of Dahlonega across the Etowah river. Colonel Bell for killing J. M. Blackstock last November was taken up this morning, a jury obtained and a number of witnesses examined, and the trial will be quite conclusive to-morrow. A little over two years old, Andrew Kirby, shot off from this house, and was drowned in the Etowah water ditch eight miles southwest of this place.

BARNESVILLE CHAMPIONS.

Special Correspondence of The Constitution. BARNESVILLE, April 26.—A few weeks ago, in yesterday's "Conservator" from Griffin says that the Stonewall fire company of Griffin are the champions of the state, and that the Jeff Davis fire company here would have to challenge Stonewall. The Jeff Davis boys are not the ones to do the challenging. They beat Stonewall's record,  $\frac{1}{2}$  second and are themselves champions and easily resting record. They are challenging the Jeff Davis and Stonewall. Our dragoons are ordering more virus and soon our citizens will be well vaccinated. The catfish club are preparing for their annual fish.

BELLTON'S Beauties.

From the Bellton North Georgia.

Bellton is situated on the Atlanta and Carrollton division of the Railroad and Dam, about thirty-six miles from Atlanta, fourteen miles from Gainesville, forty miles from Athens, and about three miles from the head of the survey of the projected Atlanta and Chattooga canal. It lies in one of the best grass and grass growing sections of the state, while the cotton crop repays the farmer better than farther south in the state, and the soil is better.

The town is proverbial, and we hesitate not to say that ever since it was laid off, in 1870, no locality in Georgia can show a record of less mortality, according to population, than Bellton. Aside from all these healthful advantages, its society is as good as any place of its size within our knowledge.

An Explanation.

ATLANTA, GA., April 26, 1882.—Editors CONSTITUTION: In to-day's Post-Appeal there appears an article headed "Society Men." Men of the world are referred to the appearance of that paper yesterday evening, as friends of Mr. Joyner, we had a conference with the Post-Appeal reporters who wrote the account, and they have agreed to print the following retraction in their next issue.

EDWARD S. McCANDLESS,

SAM.—ENABLE.

TO THE PUBLIC: The notice which appeared in the "Post" of the 26th inst., headed "Society men in a bad row" is false in every particular except the fact that Mr. Joyner was cut through the lung, and is lying in a critical condition. The "society men" were "taking in the town" and that the row occurred at a respectable house is false.

THE GEORGIA RAILROAD.

And the Injunction Against the Railroad Commission.

State's Hates.

Ex-Governor Smith, chairman of the railroad commission, was met yesterday by a CONSTITUTION reporter, who asked:

"Governor, what is the status of the injunction case brought by the Georgia railroad against the commission?"

"There is nothing new in the case. It is set down for hearing in Eatonton on the 10th of May."

Judge Lawson is to hear the case, I believe?"

"Yes."

"Will the commission be ready?"

"Yes. We are making our preparations and expect to announce ready."

"What about the result?"

"We have no fears on that score. I am satisfied that the commission will be sustained."

"Will any one assist the attorney general?"

"Mynatt and Howard have been employed for the purpose by merchants who are interested in sustaining the action of the commission."

"Will you make an argument?"

"No, I suppose not. I see no necessity for such a course."

CHILDREN'S DAY

Postponed Until Saturday, the 26th of August Next.

Yesterday CONSTITUTION reporter Mr. J. C. K. Hall asked him if there was anything new in reference to the "children's day" celebration by the Sunday schools of the county. He replied:

"The celebration will not occur in May, as was reported. While that would have suited the city schools, it does not suit our country friends, and you will have determined as to the date of the celebration in August."

"Where will it be held?"

"At Ponce de Leon spring, on the 26th of August. We expect to make it one of the most pleasant celebrations that have ever been held."

"Has a programme been made up yet?"

"No; but it will be made up and issued in due time."

"Any prizes have been offered?"

"Mr. James, the president of the county association, offers several prizes. He has the schools divided into three classes so that the small schools will not have to compete with the larger ones. One class embraces the First and Central Presbyterian schools, the First and Trinity Methodist schools, and the First and Second Baptist schools. The next class embraces the other city schools, and the third is composed of the country schools. There are three sets of prizes, one for each set of schools. One prize of $10 is offered for the school reporting the largest number of converts during the year, up to August 26th. A prize of five dollars is offered for the best song sung on the day of the celebration. Three dollars will be given to the school which presents the largest number of new pupils during the year. A prize of one dollar will be given to the child who secures the second largest number. A prize of one dollar will be given to the child bringing the third largest number. Of course the value of these prizes is not great but it is hoped that they will help to stimulate interest in the occasion."

Apples at Five Cents.

"Five cents apiece" was the price asked for apples last night at one of the street fruit stands, which are so numerous in Atlanta.

"Why are they so high?"

"Because, you see," said the vendor, "apples have risen." I pay five dollars a barrel for western apples. I look them over to see if the balance is inferior. So I pick out the good ones and sell them at five cents and the poorer ones at three for ten cents—a man makes one apple by taking ten cents worth."

"Your oranges?"

"Oranges are up too. Good ones I will sell at one for ten cents, and when aged, sell them at ten cents. I pay $7 a box for them. The cause of the rise is the exhaustion of last year's crop."

"Can you do any better in lemons?"

"I can let you have more for the money—up to five cents. I pay $5 a box for them."

"I sell them at 50 cents a dozen. There is a great deal of money in bananas if you can sell them off rapidly. They spoil very quickly."

A glance at the showcase showed profusion of nuts, candies, crackers and other little knickknacks. The candies, the children, and the grown man's pocket. The vendor said he made from $2 to $2.50 a day, and he said a license tax of $12 a year for the privilege. At two dollars a day, a man with no talent, no capital to speak of, and but little energy can clear in a year $24—a greater sum than is made by many men in more pretentious business. There are more bakers scattered throughout the city, about one hundred of them, and many of which do better than the one here spoken of.

Two of Atlanta's most prominent business men made their first money and acquired their first mercantile training in this way. Some of the fruit stands are fitted up quite elegantly, and do a business of respectable figures. One such establishment in the city totalled $10,000 last year.

The Emperors of Russia and Germany have exchanged assurances of sympathy and amity, and their subjects have agreed to smoke the genuine and foreign Cigarettes, even though they are very lovely. The fowl occurs in an elevated position, and the Duke of Durban reigns supreme.

I take this opportunity to announce to owners of horses and the public generally that I have a large number of horses for sale, with the carriage factories of W. L. Jarvis, No. 1 Line street, Atlanta, Ga., where I will be prepared to do first-class horse-shoeing and treat all diseases of the hoof. Having practiced horse-shoeing for a number of years in the leading veterinary colleges of Edinburgh and London, and in the Royal Veterinary Hospital, I have a study of the hoof, and am prepared to guarantee satisfaction to all who may favor me with their patronage. Remember the place, No. 41 Line street, Atlanta, Ga.
